

Thursday 12th October

St Just Library 7:30 pm

Should Guidebook Writers Go To Hell..?

with DES HANNIGAN (Lonely Planet travel writer)

Veteran travel writer Des Hannigan throws a humorous and informed light on the life of a guidebook writer, and the differences between 'serious' travel writing, guidebook information and brochure blurb. Questions are being raised about the impact of tourism on the environment and on the infrastructure of famous destinations such as Venice and the Isle of Skye. Meanwhile, tourism organisations delight in flagging up TV series such as Poldark and Game of Thrones to promote such destinations as Cornwall and Dubrovnik, while guidebooks and internet travel sites proliferate.

Illustrated with colourful scenes of some of the world's most compelling locations - but none of Ross Poldark or Daenerys Targaryen...

Tickets £2.50 in advance from the library or £3 on the door

Refreshments available from 7pm

All proceeds to support St Just Community Library